Minnesota State University, Mankato
Annual Program Renewal for SUMMER International Education Abroad Programs

This renewal form is for programs that meet the following criteria:

1. Have run successfully in at least 2 of the last 4 years
2. Have no significant changes in leadership, location, itinerary or syllabi

Note: Per Allison Moore, Education Abroad & Away Advisor, I am using this form despite the fact that my program does not meet criterion #1 above.

Deadline: October 2, 2017 for preliminary approval of

Please submit completed, original proposal with original signatures to:
Education Abroad and Away Advisor.

The Global Education Advisory Council (GEAC) will review all programs (new and renewal), and make recommendations for approval to the Dean of Global Education.

Please refer to the Faculty Handbook for information about the entire process.

LOGISTICS

Last time this same program was run (month/year): Summer 2015

(The program was not held in 2016 due to lower enrollments after the bombings in Paris and the opportunity for the faculty director to benefit from a summer Andreas Research Grant. In Summer 2017 enrollments were insufficient.)

In past programs,

a. What was the minimum number of students needed for the program to proceed last time?

The minimum number projected for last year's program was 8, though with fewer than 10, the amount charged for local transportation and some other fees would perhaps (depending upon exchange rates) have needed to be adjusted accordingly. In each of the four years from 2010-2013 and again in 2015, enrollments were between 9 and 15 students. I am taking additional steps to try to further increase enrollments for 2018, including:

- Contacted other MNSCU campuses, as well as mailings (paper and electronic to other universities from whom we have had participants in the past).
- Met with colleagues from the College of Business (Marketing) who are going to work with me to encourage more participation from their students in the 2-week program.
- Reduced costs by requesting fewer overload credits and identify potential cost savings (transportation & lodging).

Due to the cost reductions outlined above, minimum enrollment numbers for 2018 will be lower than in 2017.

b. How many students actually participated?

Summer 2010 – 15 (three for 2-week program and twelve for the 6-week program)

Summer 2011 – 13 (all enrolled in 6-week program)

Summer 2012 – 10 (9 for the 6-week program and 1 for 2-week)

Summer 2013 – 9 (6 for the 6-week program and 3 for 2-week)

Summer 2014 – Program cancelled due to reduced enrollment + personal/faculty reasons

Summer 2015 – 10 (7 for the 6-week program and 3 for 2-week)

Summer 2016 – Program not offered due to reduced enrollment and Andreas faculty Summer Research Grant

Summer 2017 – Program cancelled due to insufficient enrollment

Please briefly explain the relationship between your academic program and your host country / countries. Specifically address opportunities for students to interact with local people.

Students who participate in the six-week program have ample contact with local residents and native speakers of French. They live with a French host family during the entire month of July and are in intensive French classes 5 days/week with local instructors. As part of their classes in La Rochelle, they also participate in a number of activities/excursions organized by the university that often include contact with local businesses, artists and political figures. They also have ample opportunities for informal contact outside the classroom with local residents.

Students who choose the 2-week option have more limited contact with local residents, as most of the time is spent with the group, which also includes students who will spend four additional weeks in France as part of the 6-week option. They do, however, interact with staff at museum and historical sites that are visited as part of the program, and on less formal level with staff in hotels, stores, restaurants and other locations that are part of daily life in the host country.

Annual Education Abroad (International) Program Renewal

NEW: Semester and year of program: Federal regulations and guidelines for purposes of financial aid eligibility require that courses begin no earlier than 14 days prior to the start of the semester and end no later than 14 days after the end of the semester. NOTES REGARDING COURSE OFFERINGS

- Students may, based on individual pedagogical needs or linguistic proficiency, enroll in approved courses other than those listed above. However, those listed above are the most frequently used. As noted in the faculty expenses section, most undergraduate students enroll for a total of 9 credits and most graduate students for a total of 6 credits. Those participating in the two-week program only would normally enroll for a total of 3 credits.
- If students enroll for the two-week option, second sections of the appropriate course(s) – normally Paris et l'Île de France will need to be added to the course offerings so that the appropriate course fees may be attached.

FACULTY LEADER SALARY AND EXPENSES

Calculation of salary and expenses for faculty leader(s) should be completed by Dean's Office in the College for each leader.

Leader 1 Name:

This course will be offered: Over-load (6 credits)

If overload: $ 11,806.63 Instructional cost for leader (3 credits as instructor and 3 as director)

The net of these dollars to cover the instructor's salary is (2.25% of base/cr) + fringe calculated at 16.5%.

	Amount	Please identify funding source(s) (College, Department, PDF, 3 rd Party, Other)	Cost Center Number
Salary	$11,806.63	World Languages & Cultures Department	2-10013
Transportation (Airfare + Ground)	$2,000	College of Arts & Humanities	2-10001
Accommodations	$1,825	College of Arts & Humanities	2-10001
Per diem	$600	College of Arts & Humanities	2-10001
Total	$16,051.63

__6__ Minimum student enrollment necessary to cover instructional cost (salary). Calculate the minimum number of credits needed in order for program to cover instructional costs by taking the total instructional cost and dividing it by $250/credit for undergraduate enrollments and by $345/credit for graduate enrollments. (Your college may use a slightly different amount to calculate instructional costs.)

$$11,806.63 / $250 \text{ per credit hour} = 47.22 \text{ credit hours to cover instructional costs}$

$6 \text{ students} \times 9 \text{ credits per student} = 54 \text{ credit hours}^{}$

__8__ Minimum student enrollment necessary to cover instructional cost and related expenses. Calculate the minimum number of credits needed in order for program to cover instructional costs by taking the total instructional cost and dividing it by $250/credit for undergraduate enrollments and by $345/credit for graduate enrollments. (Your college may use a slightly different amount to calculate instructional costs.)

$$16,051.63 / $250 \text{ per credit hour} = 64.20 \text{ credit hours to cover instructional costs and related expenses}$

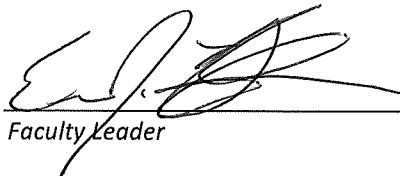

$8 \text{ students} \times 9 \text{ credits per student} = 72 \text{ credit hours}^{}$

These calculations make the assumption that all enrolled students have selected the full (6-week) option (usually 9 credits). The minimum number could be higher if fewer students enroll for the 6-week option and more for the 2-week option. Occasionally, we also have graduate participants, but I have not included any in these assumptions.

Course Description and Objectives – Undergraduate and Graduate Participants

This course is specifically designed for the Summer Study in France Program. During the visit to Paris and the surrounding area, students will visit the major churches, cathedrals, castles, monuments, museums and neighborhoods. They will learn a number of religious and civil architectural terms, historical information and vocabulary associated with the places visited. An effort will be made to help students to:

- understand the historical foundations of contemporary French society
- identify connections between historical events/institutions and current social values
- recognize the key players and events in the history of the French republic, especially the period from the Middle Ages through the French Revolution
- understand the development of Paris as a cultural, economic and intellectual hub in France and Europe.
- demonstrate an understanding of the need to be sensitive to cultural differences

Course Objectives – Graduate Participants Only

Since graduate-level participants are those who will, for the most part, be preparing for an academic career in either a research or teaching driven field, materials and assignments will also attempt to give them an opportunity to:

- demonstrate their ability to research, compile and synthesize information on a specific research topic related to one or more of the sites/themes addressed in the course
- communicate details from their research to an audience and address questions with clear and effective explanations

Conduct

Please turn off all cell phones during organized visits to museums and other sites, and be respectful of those around you. For certain destinations, properly formal attired will be required, and I will inform you of any such cases at least one day prior. Remember that you are de facto cultural ambassadors for both our country and university!

Disability Services

Minnesota State University, Mankato provides students with disabilities reasonable accommodation to participate in educational programs, activities or services. Students with disabilities requiring accommodation to participate in class activities or to meet course requirements should first register with Accessibility Resources, located in 0132 Memorial Library (TEL: 389-2825 | TDD: 711) and then contact me as soon as possible.

Desire2Learn

Because we will be off-campus for the entire duration of this course, D2L will NOT be used to communicate course information. Any necessary documents or other materials may be provided to you in electronic or printed format prior to departure.

Journal Entries

Students are expected to read all assigned documents from the coursepack/handouts and complete three written assignments in the form of online journal (blog) entries. Failure to keep up with this part of the coursework usually results in forgotten details, mistakes or an overall lack of ideas which, in turn, results in poor grades.

In your journal entries, you should address the main features of a given cultural site or experience and attempt to make connections with your understanding of contemporary French culture and your own cultural traditions (US or otherwise).

Grading of the journal entries will be based on a rubric similar to the one found on page 5 of this syllabus. For a list of possible topics/questions, see pages 6-9.

Level Specific Requirements – Journal Entries

- Students enrolled in FREN 214 & 314 will complete one journaling assignment in French and the remaining two in English.
- Students enrolled in FREN 414 will complete two journaling assignments in French and the remaining one in English.
- Students enrolled in FREN 614 will complete all journaling assignments in French.

Introductory Site Exposé – Graduate Participants Only

Based on a theme of your choosing (from those addressed in the course content/site visits), you will present the main ideas of what will be your final paper (see below) to the class as part of an introduction to that particular session/visit.

The presentation should include any information critical to an understanding of the historical, cultural and political significance of the site(s) and people in question. What do you find most compelling about this topic/issue? Why is a knowledge of it important/useful to someone today? The oral presentation is a serious but relaxed exercise that will give you the chance to listen to feedback from me and your peers before moving on and completing the final paper. Detailed information about required components and grading will be provided in a separate document.

Final Paper – Graduate Participants Only

Based on one of the themes addressed by the journal entry topics (and the same used for your site exposé (see above), the final paper will assess your ability to research, compile and synthesize information on a particular site and its historical, cultural and political contexts. Because there will be little time for research or access to materials during our stay in Paris, you will be required to select a topic for this paper at the official start of the Summer term, well before our scheduled departure. The paper should be formatted using either MLA or Chicago style and the target length (in French) will be 10-12 pages.

Exam

A few days after arrival in La Rochelle, you will take an examination covering the historical events, significant individuals, pertinent architectural terms and other vocabulary associated with the places visited during the stay in Paris and Normandy.

This examination should not be unusually difficult if you have been engaged in the various site visits and have reviewed all assigned course handouts.
